When both parents are employed by the Company, it will allow both parents the option of taking up to (12) weeks of family and medical leave during a 12-month period for the birth or care of a newborn son or daughter, or for placement of a son or daughter for adoption or foster care, or to care for a parent who has a serious health condition. In addition, leave for birth and care, or placement for adoption or foster care, must conclude within (12) months of the birth or placement.

A “serious health condition” means an illness, injury, impairment, or a physical or mental condition that involves:

- Inpatient care (e.g., an overnight stay) in a hospital, hospice, or residential medical care facility. This includes any period of incapacity (e.g., inability to work, attend school, or perform other regular daily activities due to the serious health condition, treatment therefore, or recovery therefrom) or any subsequent treatment relating to such inpatient care; or continuing treatment by a healthcare provider.

A “serious health condition” involving continuing treatment by a healthcare provider includes any one of the following:

- A period of incapacity which is permanent or long-term due to a condition for which treatment may not be effective. The employee or immediate family member must be under the continuing supervision of, but need to be receiving active treatment by a healthcare provider. Examples include Alzheimer's, a severe stroke, or the terminal states of a disease.
- Any period of absence to receive multiple treatments (including any period of recovery therefrom) by a healthcare provider or by a provider of healthcare services under orders of, or on referral by, a healthcare provider, either for restorative surgery after an accident or other injury, or for a condition which would likely result in a period of incapacity of more than (3) consecutive calendar days in the absence of medical intervention or treatment, such as cancer (chemotherapy, radiation, etc.), severe arthritis (physical therapy), or kidney disease (dialysis).

A "healthcare provider" means:

- Doctors of medicine or osteopathy authorized to practice medicine or surgery by the state in which the doctors practice.

- Christian Science practitioners listed with the First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston, Massachusetts; or
- Any healthcare provider recognized by the Company or the Company's group health plan.

FMLA Intermittent Leave

Under some circumstances, employees may take family and medical leave intermittently or on a reduced leave schedule. Intermittent leave is leave taken in separate blocks of time due to a single qualifying reason. A reduced leave schedule is a leave schedule that reduces an employee's usual number of working hours per workweek or workday. The Company will grant eligible employees intermittent or reduced schedule family and medical leave whenever medically necessary to care for a seriously ill family member or because the employee is seriously ill and unable to work. The Company will consider, but is not required to grant intermittent or reduced schedule family and medical leave for the birth of a newborn and care or placement of a child for adoption or foster care.

FMLA Military Caregiver and Qualifying Exigency Leave

The FMLA includes "military caregiver leave" for eligible employees to take up to 26 weeks of leave during a single 12-month period to care for a covered service member. The employee must be the spouse, son, daughter, parent, or next of kin of the service member. A covered service member is: A current member of the Armed Forces, including the National Guard or Reserves, who is undergoing medical treatment, recuperation or therapy, is in outpatient status or on the temporary disability retired.

BENEFITS

- list, for a serious injury or illness that may render the service member medically unfit to perform his or her military duties; or
- A veteran who was discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable at any time during the five-year period prior to the first date the employee takes FMLA leave to care for the covered veteran, and who is undergoing medical treatment, recuperation, or therapy for a serious injury or illness. For a veteran, a serious injury or illness is one that rendered the veteran medically unfit to perform his or her military duties, or an injury or illness that qualifies the veteran for certain benefits from the Department of Veterans Affairs or substantially impairs the veteran's ability to work.
- Under the FMLA's "qualifying exigency leave" provision, eligible employees may be granted up to (12) work weeks of leave during any 12-month period for certain situations that arise when the employee's spouse, son, daughter, or parent is on covered active duty or has been notified of an impending call or order to covered active duty. Covered active duty means: deployment to a foreign country for members of the Regular Armed Forces; for members of the National Guard and Reserves, this means deployment to a foreign country or order of active duty. Qualifying exigencies for which an employee may take FMLA leave include making alternative child care arrangements for a child of the deployed military member, attending certain military ceremonies and briefings, or making financial or legal arrangements to address the military member's absence.

FMLA and Worker's Compensation Leave

Family and medical leave and Worker's Compensation leave may run together provided the injury qualifies as a serious health condition.

Obligations for Foreseeable Leave

Employees must give written notice to their supervisor or Human Resources at least 30-days in advance of the need for family and medical leave if the need for leave is foreseeable based on an expected birth, placement for adoption or foster care, or planned medical treatment for a serious health condition of the employee or immediate family member. If an employee fails to give a 30-day advance written notice for foreseeable leave, the Company may delay the taking of the leave until at least 30-days after the date the notice was provided.

Employees requiring intermittent or reduced schedule leave that is necessary for a foreseeable medical treatment must attempt to schedule such treatment so as not to disrupt the operations of the Company, subject to the approval of the relevant healthcare provider. If an employee needs intermittent or reduced schedule leave that is foreseeable based on a planned medical treatment for the employee or an immediate family member, or if the Company agrees to permit intermittent or reduced schedule leave for birth and care, or placement for adoption or foster care, the Company may assign the employee temporarily to an alternative position with equal pay and benefits that better accommodates the employee's intermittent or reduced schedule leave.

Unforeseeable Leave

If family and medical leave is unforeseeable (including premature birth or short notice of the availability for a child for adoption), an employee must notify their supervisor or Human Resources as soon as practicable. This generally means at least verbal notice within one or two business days of learning of the need to take the leave (absent extraordinary circumstances).

If the Company is not made aware that an employee was absent for family and medical leave reasons and the employee wants the leave to be counted as family and medical leave, the employee must, upon returning to work, promptly notify the Company (generally within two business days of returning to work) that the leave was taken for a family and medical leave qualifying reason.

Medical Certification

The Company will require employees who request family and medical leave for the employee's own serious health condition or the serious health condition of an immediate family member to provide documentation of the need for such leave.

The Company will require that employees provide a completed medical certification by a healthcare provider as to, among other things, (a) the date the condition commenced; (b) its probable duration; (c) appropriate medical facts regarding the condition; (d) in the case of an immediate family member, a statement that the employee is needed to care for the family member and expected duration of such need; and (e) in the case of the employee's own illness, a statement that the employee (I) is unable to perform work of any kind; (II) is unable to perform one or more of the essential functions of the employee's position; or (III) must be absent from work for treatment. Medical certification forms are available from the Human Resources department.

If an employee requests intermittent or reduced schedule leave, the Company will also require certification that this type of leave is medically necessary and verification of the schedule for treatment, if applicable, and of the expected duration of the leave.

The employee must provide the Company with the medical certification within (15) days of the Company's request. Failure to provide adequate certification in a timely manner may result in delay of leave. Leave will not be counted as family and medical leave unless this certification is provided.

If the Company has reason to doubt the validity of the medical certification, it may require that the employee obtain a second opinion from a healthcare provider selected by the Company at the Company's expense. If this opinion differs from the employee's certification, the Company will require, at its expense, a third opinion that is final and binding.

Maintenance of Benefits During Family and Medical Leave

The Company will maintain group health insurance coverage and disability insurance coverage for an employee on family and medical leave on the same terms as if the employee continued to work, in accordance with the terms of the plans.

When an employee returns from family and medical leave, the Company will return the employee to the same position the employee held when the leave commenced, or to an equivalent position that has equivalent benefits, pay, and other terms and conditions of employment.

Status Reports During Family and Medical Leave

During family and medical leave, employees must report periodically to the Company on their status and their intent to return to work. Employees on leave for their own serious health condition or the serious health condition of an immediate family member may be asked to submit medical re-certifications from time to time during their leave. Employees are not permitted to engage in other employment while they are absent from the Company under this policy without the prior written approval of the Company. Violation of this policy may lead to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

Return to Work Following Family and Medical Leave

The Company is not required to restore “key” employees to their positions or to equivalent positions upon their return to work following family and medical leave when restoration to employment will cause the Company substantial and grievous economic injury. The Company will notify “key” employees – certain highly compensated, salaried individuals – in writing of the decision denying job restoration.

The Company will require employees on leave for their own serious health condition to submit, prior to their return, a medical certification from their healthcare provider of their ability to return to work. The Company may delay restoration to an employee who fails to provide such certification.

Military Leave

Employees are eligible for leave of absence for a maximum of five years to serve in the uniformed services. The uniformed services include the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, and their reserves; the Army and Air National Guard, including periods of training; the Public Health Service commissioned corps; and other categories designated by the President of the United States in times of emergency.

- Compensation
 - Employees will be protected against loss of income because of service for up to two weeks. After the first two weeks, leave will be unpaid. Employees may request that earned vacation be used during any portion of unpaid military leave.

- Benefits
 - Employees who are on training or reserve leave of less than one month will be covered by Company health insurance policies to the extent allowable under each of the plans in existence at the time of the leave. Employees on extended leave are eligible to elect coverage under COBRA and should contact Human Resources for details of the coverage. Employees returning from military leave will be entitled to all rights and benefits accrued (e.g., vacation) as of the time leave was taken. In addition, returning employees will be credited with the seniority and with the rights and benefits connected with the seniority that would have been accrued had the employee remained continuously employed.
- Re-employment Rights
 - If an employee takes a military leave of absence for more than (14) days, he or she must apply for reinstatement. For a leave of less than (31) days, the employee must report for reinstatement on the first full regularly scheduled workday after the completion of service or, if it is impossible or unreasonable for the employee to report within that period through no fault of his or her own, they should report as soon as possible thereafter. For a leave of (31 to 180 days), the employee has (14) days in which to apply for reinstatement. For a leave greater than (180) days, the employee has (90) days in which to apply for reinstatement.
 - Any employee whose leave is less than (91) days will be reemployed in the position he or she would have obtained, based on seniority, if leave had not been taken. If the employee is not qualified for that position, the Company will make reasonable efforts to train him or her for the position. If the employee fails to become qualified for the new position, he or she will be placed in his or her former position. An employee whose leave exceeds (91) days will be reemployed in a position he or she would have obtained but for the leave, or a position of like seniority, pay, and status, if qualified. If the employee is not qualified for that position, the Company will make reasonable efforts to train him or her for the position. If the employee fails to become qualified for the position, he or she will be placed in his or her former position, or a position of like seniority, pay, and status.

Personal Leave

Personal Leave may be granted without pay to regular, full-time employees who have completed one year of service. The leave:

- Should not exceed 30 calendar days
- Carries no job restoration or benefit guarantee
- Will be limited to one per year utilizing a “rolling” 12-month period measured backward from the date of the request for leave

Other Leave

Other types of leave may be available pursuant to local law for a variety of reasons, including jury duty, voting, parental involvement, domestic violence or other matters. Please contact Human Resources with questions about other types of unpaid leave that may be available in your location.

Supplemental Leave

An employee who is eligible to participate in the Company's health plan and who has (a) otherwise qualified for leave under the Company's FMLA policy due to such employee's own serious health condition (as defined under the FMLA policy) or (b) because an employee is unable to perform any work in his or her job due to an injury that occurred at work and is covered and compensable by the applicable state worker's compensation laws ("worker's compensations injury") is entitled to additional unpaid Supplemental Leave for a total of 52 weeks of leave. The conditions and requirements for Supplemental Leave are as follows:

- The serious health condition of a worker's compensation injury must be verified under all applicable policies.
- Once the FMLA leave is exhausted, the employee will not be entitled to any job restoration benefits. The Company will have no obligation to reinstate the employee. Further, the Company will fill the employee's position with another new or existing employee with no obligation to reinstate the employee on leave. Further, the Company reserves the right, at any time (even while an employee is on Supplemental Leave) to deny, terminate, or otherwise shorten the Supplemental Leave if the Company determines that it would be in the best interest of the Company to do so. If the Company reinstates the employee from Supplemental Leave, the employee years of service will be calculated as though he or she had continuous employment while he or she was on Supplemental Leave.
- The employee may continue to be eligible for health benefits under the Company's medical plans, but the employee is responsible for paying all premiums and costs associated with such benefits. The amount of the premium will be the applicable COBRA rate at the time the Supplemental Leave begins and may be increased if allowed by law.
- The employee's Supplemental Leave and employment with the Company may be terminated at any time, but no later than at the end of the 52-week Supplemental Leave period, subject to any obligations the Company may have under the American with Disabilities Act, as amended, or any other applicable federal or state law.
- While on Supplemental Leave, the employee will accrue and be eligible for any vacation time; however, employees will not be eligible for any bonuses.
- Nothing in this Supplemental Leave Policy shall constitute a contract or other enforceable obligations by the Company to any employee. The Company retains all discretion to grant or deny Supplemental Leave to any employee, and may do so in its sole discretion. The employee must provide all necessary and requested information to Human Resources regarding Supplemental Leave.

Housekeeping

Good housekeeping (cleanliness and orderliness) reduces accidents, improves health conditions, adds to the efficiency in which you do your job, provides a positive appearance to visitors, co-workers, and customers, and ensures a work area of which we can be proud. The Company is required by federal, state, and certain local laws to withhold certain deductions from your paycheck. This includes income and unemployment taxes, and FICA contributions (Social Security and Medicare) as well as any other deductions required under law or by court order for wage garnishments. The amount of your tax deductions will depend on your earnings and the number of exemptions you list on your federal form W-4 and applicable state withholding form. Review Your Pay Stub

The Company makes every effort to ensure our employees are paid correctly. Occasionally, however, inadvertent mistakes can happen. When mistakes occur, and are called to our attention, we promptly will make any correction that is necessary. Please review your pay stub when you receive it to make sure it is correct. If you believe a mistake has occurred or if you have any question, please use the reporting procedure outlined below.

Non-exempt Employees

If you are eligible for overtime pay or extra pay, you must maintain a record of the total hours you work each day. Your time card must accurately reflect all regular and overtime hours worked, any absences, early or late arrivals, early or late departures and meal breaks. At no time should you be “working off the clock.” When you receive each pay check, please verify immediately that you were paid correctly for all regular and overtime hours worked each workweek.

Exempt Employees

If you are classified as an exempt salaried employee, you will receive a salary which is intended to compensate you for all hours that you may work for the Company. This salary will be established at the time of hire or when you become classified as an exempt employee. While it may be subject to review and modification from time to time, such as during salary review times, the salary will be a predetermined amount that will not be subject to deductions for variations in the quantity or quality of the work you perform.

You will receive your full salary for any workweek in which work is performed. However, under federal law, your salary is subject to certain deductions. For example, absent contrary state law requirements, your salary can be reduced for the following reasons in a workweek in which work was performed:

- Full day absences for personal reasons, including vacation.
- Full day disciplinary suspensions for infractions of safety rules of major significance (including those that could cause serious harm to others).
- Family and Medical Leave absences (either full or partial day absences).
- To offset amounts received as payment for jury and witness fees or military pay.
- Unpaid disciplinary suspensions of one or more full days for significant infractions of major workplace conduct rules set forth in written policies.
- The first or last week of employment in the event you work less than a full week.

- Partial day absences for personal reasons, sickness or disability.
- Your absence because the facility is closed on a scheduled work day.
- Absences for jury duty, attendance as a witness, or military leave in any week in which you have performed any work.

To Report Violations of This Policy, Communicate Concerns, or Obtain More Information

It is a violation of the Company's policy for any employee to falsify a time card, or to alter another employee's time card. It is also a serious violation of Company policy for any employee or manager to instruct another employee to incorrectly or falsely report hours worked or alter another employee's time card to under- or over-report hours worked. If any manager or employee instructs you to (1) incorrectly or falsely under- or over-report your hours worked, (2) alter another employee's time records to inaccurately or falsely report that employee's hours worked, or (3) conceal any falsification of time records or to violate this policy, do not do so. Instead, report it immediately to the Human Resources Department.

You should not work any hours outside of your scheduled work day unless your supervisor has authorized the unscheduled work in advance. Do not start work early, finish work late, work during a meal break or perform any other extra or overtime work unless you are authorized to do so, and that time is recorded on your time card. Employees are prohibited from performing any "off-the-clock" work. "Off-the-clock" work means work you may perform but fail to report on your time card. Any employee who fails to report or inaccurately reports any hours worked will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including discharge.

If you have questions about deductions from your pay, please contact Human Resources immediately. If you believe your wages have been subject to any improper deductions or your pay does not accurately reflect all hours worked, you should report your concerns to a supervisor immediately. If a supervisor is unavailable or if you believe it would be inappropriate to contact that person (or if you have not received a prompt and fully acceptable reply within three business days), you should immediately contact the Human Resources Department.

Every report will be fully investigated and corrective action will be taken, up to and including discharge of any employee(s) who violates this policy.

In addition, the Company will not allow any form of retaliation against individuals who report alleged violations of this policy or who cooperate in the Company's investigation of such reports. Retaliation is unacceptable. Any form of retaliation in violation of this policy will result in disciplinary action, up to and including discharge.

INTERNAL JOB POSTINGS

The Company supports promoting employees from within the Company. Open positions will be posted at timeclocks and other designated areas throughout the facilities. The Internal Job Posting Program is designed to provide an objective, structured program for the advancement of qualified internal candidates. To be considered as an internal candidate, an employee must satisfy the following requirements:

- Have performed satisfactorily in their current position
- Employee's record must not indicate that they are currently on a disciplinary notice
- Must meet minimum job qualifications for the posted position(s)

A lateral position move may be permitted provided the employee meets the requirements set forth and there are circumstances that warrant a lateral move. Lateral transfers are handled as a transfer request and not as a promotion.

Employees interested in applying for a posted position should complete an Internal Job Interest form, sign it, and forward it to his/her immediate supervisor for approval/signature. Then the employee should submit the completed form to Human Resources. Blank forms may be obtained from the Human Resources department.

LIMITS OF AUTHORITY

Authority for Approving Pay Rate Increases

The Company believes that it is in the best interest of both the Company and our employees to fairly compensate our workforce for the value of the work provided. The method to be used by Management, will be objective and non-discriminatory in theory, application, and practice.

All pay rate increases are based on employee's performance, on the competitive pay level for the employee's job, and/or the Company's business climate. All pay rate increases require prior approval before the increase is communicated to the employee. The steps for requesting a pay rate increase for both hourly and salaried jobs are as follows:

- Submit initial pay rate requests directly in Paycom under the Personnel Action Form Dashboard
- The requested PAF will be forwarded through the proper hierarchy, obtaining approvals for the pay rate increase request with notification given to the management team member/requester
- Management team member will communicate the increase to the employee
